If the Insured Party's body is not recovered following a shipwreck or disappearance or destruction of the means of transport in which he or she travelled, there is a presumption of Accidental Death after a period of One (1) Year from the day of the Accident.

The cover is available on presentation of a judgement declaring death.

However, if it is proved, after the payment of the benefit to the Beneficiary, at any time whatsoever, that the Insured Party is still alive, the sum paid as regards the presumption of Accidental Death must be returned by the Beneficiary, in full, to the Insurer, with the Insured Party guaranteeing this return.

Title IV – Miscellaneous Provisions

A. Respect for economic and trade sanctions

If the cover or the payment of the compensation or the loss provided for by this policy violates the resolutions of the United Nations or the economic and commercial sanctions, laws, or regulations of the European Union, the United Kingdom, a national legislation, or the United States of America, such cover or such a payment of compensation or loss shall be null and void.

B. Expert appraisal in case of disagreement

In the event of a medical dispute, each party shall appoint a physician in order to organise a joint expert appraisal. If these physicians fail to reach an agreement, a third physician shall be added to reach a final decision, which shall take the place of arbitration. If one of the parties does not appoint a physician or if the physicians representing the parties do not agree on the choice of the third physician, the appointment shall be done by the President of the Court of First Instance of the Insured Party's Home.

Each party shall bear the fees and costs relating to the intervention of the physician that the party has designated. Fees and costs of the third physician's intervention shall be divided equally between them.

C. Supervision of the proceedings

For Damages within the framework of the "Personal Liability" cover and within the limits thereof, the Insurer alone shall assume the supervision of the proceedings against the Insured Party and shall have free exercise of remedies.

The Insurer shall bear the fees and expenses of investigations, inquiries, expert appraisals, lawyers, and proceedings. These costs and fees shall be deducted from the applicable cover amount.

The Insurer's handling of the Insured Party's defence shall not constitute a waiver for the Insurer of its right to invoke any exception of cover of which it was unaware when it took on the supervision of this defence. In the event of criminal proceedings, in which the civil interests are or will be sought within the framework of this body or any other body later, the Insured Party undertakes to include the Insurer in his or her defence without this commitment changing the extent of the cover under this Policy.

Under penalty of Forfeiture, the Insured Party must not interfere in the supervision of the proceedings when the subject thereof falls within the "Personal Liability" cover.

D. Settlement

The Insurer alone shall have the right, within the limit of its cover, to negotiate with injured persons.

No settlement or acknowledgement of liability occurring apart from the Insurer may be enforced against the Insurer.

However, neither an admission of a material fact nor the sole act of having provided emergency assistance to the victim when it involves an act of assistance that any person has the moral duty to perform shall be regarded as an acknowledgement of liability.

E. Conciliation

As this policy is made and signed in good faith, the contracting parties undertake, in the event of a dispute, to bring court proceedings only after an attempt at mediation.

To that end, they shall each appoint a mediator. In case of disagreement between the two mediators on the resolution of the dispute, they may mutually choose a third mediator and rule by majority vote. Each party shall pay the fees and expenses of the mediator that each party appointed and, where appropriate, half of the fees of the third mediator.

F. Limitation period

All actions arising from an insurance policy shall be limited to Two (2) Years from the date of the event giving rise to them under the conditions provided for in Articles L. 114-1 to L. 114-3 of the French insurance code.

- Article L 114-1 of the French insurance code:

All actions arising from an insurance policy are subject to a limitation period of two years from the date of the generating event. However, this period shall run:

1. In case of concealment, omission, or false or inaccurate declaration on the risk involved, from the day when the Insurer learned of it.
2. In the event of a Loss, from the day when the interested parties learned of it, if they prove that they were unaware of it until then. When the Insured Party's action against the Insurer is due to the recourse of a third party, the limitation period shall run from the day when this third party initiated a court action against the Insured Party or was compensated by the Insured Party.

The limitation period shall be increased to ten years for life insurance policies if the beneficiary is a person other than the Insured Party and, for personal accident insurance policies, if the beneficiaries are the successors of the deceased Insured Party.

For life insurance policies, notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph 2, the beneficiary's actions shall be limited in time to no more than thirty years from the death of the Insured Party.

- Article L 114-2 of the French insurance code:

The limitation period is interrupted by one of the ordinary causes of interruption of the limitation period and by the appointment of experts following a Loss.

The interruption of the limitation period of the action may also result from the sending of a registered letter with return receipt sent by the Insurer to the Insured Party regarding the action for payment of the premium and by the Insured Party to the Insured Party regarding the payment of the compensation.

- Article L 114-3 of the French insurance code:

"Notwithstanding article 2254 of the French civil code, the parties to the insurance policy may not, even by mutual agreement, change the length of the limitation period or add causes for its suspension or interruption."

The ordinary causes of interruption of the limitation period referred to in Article L. 114-2 of the French insurance code are set out in Articles 2240 to 2246 of the French civil code reproduced hereinafter.

- Article 2240 of the French civil code:

The acknowledgement by the debtor of the right of the person whom the debtor attempted to prevent from invoking the statute of limitations interrupts the limitation period.

- Article 2241 of the French civil code:

The proceedings, even by way of summary proceedings, interrupt the limitation period and the peremptory time limit.

The same applies when the proceedings are brought before a court without jurisdiction when the act of referral to the court is quashed on account of a procedural defect.

- Article 2242 of the French civil code:

The interruption resulting from the proceedings has continuous effect until the proceedings terminate.

- Article 2243 of the French civil code:

Interruption fails to occur if the plaintiff abandons the proceedings or allows the proceedings to lapse, or if the plaintiff's petition is definitively rejected.

- Article 2244 of the French civil code:

The limitation period or the peremptory time limit is also interrupted by a protective measure taken pursuant to the code of civil enforcement procedures or an act of forced enforcement.

- Article 2245 of the French civil code:

The questioning of one of the joint debtors by proceedings or an action of forced enforcement or the acknowledgement by the debtor of the right of the person whom the debtor attempted to prevent from invoking the statute of limitations interrupts the limitation period against all the others, even against their heirs.

However, the questioning of one of the heirs of a joint debtor or the acknowledgement by that heir does not interrupt the limitation period with respect to other co-heirs, even in case of mortgage debt, if the obligation is divisible. This questioning or acknowledgement only interrupts the limitation period, with respect to other co-debtors, for the portion for which the heir is responsible.

In order to interrupt the limitation period for the entire matter, with respect to other co-debtors, the questioning must be done to all the heirs of the deceased debtor or the acknowledgement must be addressed to all these heirs.

- Article 2246 of the French civil code:

The questioning of the principal debtor or its acknowledgement interrupts the limitation period against the surety.

G. Subrogation

Up to the amounts of costs incurred, the Insurer shall take the place of the Policyholder and the Insured Parties in their rights and actions against any party responsible for the Loss, under the terms of Article L. 121-12 of the French insurance code.

With regard to the Death cover, our payment shall constitute an advance that the Insurer is authorised, by way of our subrogation rights, to recover from the amount of the compensation that may be paid to the Beneficiary by any person obliged to be compensated or his or her Insurer.

Similarly, if all or some of the benefits provided in execution of the Policy's cover are fully or partially covered by an insurance policy, a health insurance organisation, Social Security, or any other institution, the Insurer shall take the place of the Insured Party in his or her rights and actions towards the aforementioned organisations and policies.
